

UK Sampling Gauges Ltd

Designers and manufacturers of environmentally safe precision sampling equipment for liquids and

Providers of sub-contract machining and assembly work to customer requirements

Our Work Ethic

We believe that everyone working in and for the company should speak and act in an open, honest and considerate manner, whatever their position and responsibility.

It is the policy of the company that all our employees will enjoy a safe, secure and rewarding work environment. The management of the company will ensure, as far as possible, that:

- All machinery and equipment is maintained in a good and safe working order,
- All instructions given are clear and well understood,
- All effort is rewarded appropriately, and
- All complaints, comments and suggestions are listened to.

It is expected that, in return, that all employees will work conscientiously and in accordance with instructions, giving attention to all matters entrusted to them.

Where there appears to be a need for change, or an opportunity for improvement, all employees are expected to bring the matter to the attention of management, with a view to implementing the change, or taking up the opportunity, for the benefit of all, in particular where it could affect:

- Safety at work,
- Safety of the products we sell,
- Reliability or durability of these products, or
- Security of the business.

R. Kimonides

Director

June 2023

Date